

iniva

Whose Map is it? new mapping by artists

40°

39°

Susan Stockwell,
River of Blood
2009
vinyl cut-out
3.73 x 6.5 m

Another sense of body is explored through Susan Stockwell's new commission, a site-specific vinyl map (on the front window of Project Space 1), in which the shapes of streets in north and south London are displaced into the flow of a depiction of the River Thames. It is called River of Blood, instantly referencing medical anatomy diagrams, which when collated into a book are, interestingly, called atlases.